

Pitching Lessons

with former University of Michigan pitcher Stephanie Speierman

Are you interested in improving your pitching skills? Former University of Michigan pitcher Stephanie Speierman is currently accepting new pitchers of all ages and ability levels! Stephanie played softball at University of Michigan from 2010-2013. She was 22-1 at the University of Michigan and holds 8 Maryland State High School records, and she is now the pitching coordinator for the Rockford High School Softball Program.

Stephanie is working to build pitchers in the Rockford and surrounding areas to help grow the sport of softball in West Michigan. She strives to help girls develop their pitching skills, but she also works with them to improve their self-confidence, mental toughness, and love of the game.

Lessons are currently being held on Friday evenings at Rockford High School. Each session is half an hour. Pitchers are required to bring their own catcher.
